

FRANK H. CROKER PAYS FINE OF $5

Admits in Court that He Drove His Automobile at Ten Miles an Hour, but Didn't Know Limit Was Eight.

Frank H. Croker's pride in his ability as a chauffeur cost him $5 to-day. The young son of the former boss of Tammany was so quiet and mild-mannered when arraigned in Harlem Court for speeding his auto in the Park faster than the law allows that Magistrate Flammery gave him a loophole. But he didn't see it. Also he showed that he did not know what the legal rate of speed in the city.

Young Mr. Croker started from his home at No. 5 East Seventy-fourth street to-day in his twenty-horse-power machine for a spin up the country. At One Hundred and Sixth street, in the east drive, Mounted Policeman Murphy was standing. His attention was attracted to the Croker automobile and he timed it with a stop-watch for a block. The block was covered in eleven seconds, which is equivalent to a speed of sixteen miles an hour. Murphy called to the young man, who stopped his machine and waited for the policeman to come up.

"You were going sixteen miles an hour," said Murphy.

"I'm sorry," replied young Croker. "I'll go slower."

Murphy said that his good intentions would not save him a trip to the police court, and he climbed into the automobile, which was run over to Harlem Court.

"What have you to say, Mr. Croker?" asked the Magistrate after Murphy had told of timing the automobile. "I would be willing to swear that I was going only ten miles an hour," replied the accused.

"Was your machine under absolute control?" asked the Magistrate with an inquiring smile. This was the loophole. Magistrate occasionally releases a chauffeur who admits that perhaps the automobile got a little bit away from him.

"Oh, yes, sir," replied young Croker, "I had it under perfect control, but I desire to state again that I believe I was not going faster than ten miles an hour."

"You admit that you were going ten miles an hour," said Magistrate Flammery.

"Yes, sir," was the answer.

"Well," commented the Magistrate, "the legal speed limit is eight miles an hour, so that on your own confession you were violating the law. Do you think a $5 fine would be about right?"

"I guess so, thank you," responded young Croker, as he pulled a large roll from his pocket and handed a $5 bill to the clerk.

Several of the court clerks and attendants who knew Croker shook hands with him and he continued on his journey, but he moved slowly while in sight of the court-house.

FERRY ACROSS NARROWS.

Staten Islanders to Be Able to Make Quick Trip to Coney.

Instead of traveling to Manhattan, thence to the bridge or Brooklyn to get a train for any of Coney Island, Brighton Beach or any of the Long Island seashore resorts, Staten Islanders will be enabled within a few weeks to ferry across the narrows to Bath each or Bay Ridge.

The Bath each and Stapleton Steamboat company, capitalized at $100,000, has been organized for the purpose of furnishing a general transportation service during the summer months between Staten Island and Bath Beach.

The new ferry service will start on May 23 and close Sept. 15. Boats will be operated seven hours each day with increased number of trips on Sunday.

ORDERLIES, DRUNK, FIGHT IN ST. LUKE'S

Hospital Patients Hear Them Shout and Curse in Corridors and Doctors Telephone for the Police.

St. Luke's Hospital, on Morningside Heights, was the scene of a small-sized riot last night, when eight of the orderlies, who had been drinking heavily, ran amuck in the corridors, fighting each other and disturbing all the patients by their shouts and curses.

The Rev. George F. Clover, Superintendent of the hospital, placed the blame for the outbreak on a man who has been at the hospital but a short time, but who has been a disturbing element since he was engaged. This man started the drinking last night. Dr. Clover says, and the others followed. Then the fighting began, and it became so furious that the doctors were unable to restrain the men, and finally telephoned to Police Headquarters for help.

The police of the west One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station were ordered to the hospital at once. They drove all of the orderlies from the place, save one, David Small. Small refused to go and was arrested. To-day he was arraigned in the Harlem Police Court before Magistrate Flammery. The Magistrate let him go with a reprimand. Dr. Clover, who was in court, said that Small was not one of the principal offenders.

A new batch of orderlies will have to be engaged at the hospital.

PARTY FOR FRANZ WILCZEK.

Austrian Violinist's Birthday Celebrated at West Orange.

At Beaumont, the handsome West Orange home of Frank Kowling, a birthday party was tendered last evening to Franz Wilczek, the Austrian violinist.

A large company of fellow artists and friends arrived from the city in the afternoon. After the presentation of some rare musical compositions the evening was taken up with athletic sports in the private bowling and archery alleys on the grounds. At ten o'clock Louis Dressler, the musical conductor, broke the record of the alleys.

Later in the evening an impromptu musical programme was rendered in the dining-room, and shortly after midnight, at the exact anniversary moment of Mr. and Mrs. Kowling's guest, minutes calculated, with allowance made for difference of time, a huge birthday cake was cut.

The billiard-room and bowling alleys were decorated for the occasion with a set of flags and pennants of Mr. Kowling's new yacht, which on this occasion, through the proxy of his youngest daughter, Miss Frankie, was christened "My Lady" by Mr. Wilczek, the principal guest of the evening.
